

Interested in learning to play an instrument?

Want to learn more about music?

Want to earn even more reading time without reading a book?

Check out the NLS Music Section!

Any time spent listening to instructional recordings or reading music scores counts toward your total time read.

Wolfner Library's patrons may access the NLS music collection, which consists of more than 25,000 audio, braille, and large print music scores, texts, and other instructional materials. There are also free subscriptions to magazines produced in audio, braille, and large print. All materials are circulated postage free, and many digital audio and web-braille materials are available for download via BARD.

To learn more about the NLS Music Section, contact them at 1-800-424-8567 or nls@loc.gov.

You can also visit their website at www.loc.gov/nls/about/services/music-services-individuals-blind-physical-disability/